Michael Harris Spector, FAIA Design Lecture

A 1985 Newsday Magazine article called Michael Harris Spector “the man who’s changing the face of Long Island.”

Spector created “a remarkable body of work that really spans the globe,” said son Marc Spector, a principal at the family firm. “He gave us a tremendous foundation that we continue to launch off of. He set the bar very high.”

From his design of the 1.2 million-square-foot RXR Plaza in Uniondale, with its glistening glass, oval-shaped towers, to his work on the boat-like structures of Jericho Plaza, visible from the Long Island Expressway, regional headquarters of the Allstate Insurance Co. in Farmingville, now the offices of Brookhaven Town, and the data systems computer headquarters for Grumman Corp. in Brookhaven, the award-winning designer used his penchant for sleek, ultramodern visuals to shape the environments in which Islanders do business.

Michael Spector was a fellow of the American Institute of Architects, a designation given to individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the profession.
